C-o-L Increase May Be Frozen

POST Labour Correspondent

TEL AVIV.—A IL250 month- salary is likely to be accepted at today's meeting of the Histadrut Central Committee as the ceiling for immediate payment of the cost-of-living allowance.

On the basis of 2.85 per cent, the monthly allowance on salaries would be as follows: IL200—IL5.70; IL250—IL7.12; IL300—IL8.55; IL350—IL9.97; IL400—IL11.40; IL500—IL14.25.

The proposal, originally sponsored by Ahdut Ha'avoda and now also backed by Mapai, is that all employees earning up to IL225 a month should begin to receive the additional allowances immediately. Others should receive half the allowance from July 15, and full payment from January 1, 1961. The amount frozen for the coming half-year would be paid between April and June of next year.

The Mapam Central Committee last night resolved to demand higher wages for workers in industry, building and farming.

The Mapam offensive against the Mapai proposals was set rolling yesterday when the Lakidum majority faction of the Engineers Union, which is Mapam-controlled passed a resolution demanding that engineers be paid the full allowance immediately.

Delegations of the Histadrut and the Manufacturers Association held an inconclusive meeting here yesterday. The Acting Secretary-General of the Histadrut, Mr. A. Becker presented the case for an additional allowance payment.

RUSSIA VETOES RB-47 INQUIRY

UNITED NATIONS (UPI).— The Security Council late Tuesday night rejected by nine votes to two a Soviet resolution condemning the U.S. for the flight of the RB-47 jet reconnaissance plane shot down by Soviet planes on July 1.

Only Poland supported Russia.

By exactly the same vote, the Council supported a U.S. resolution for an impartial investigation of the incident and an Italian resolution asking that International Red Cross representatives be permitted to see two survivors captured by the Russians.

But the Soviet Union vetoed these resolutions. Its "no" votes constituted the 88th and 89th vetoes cast by Russia in the Council.

Katanga to Send Study Groups Here

By PAUL KOHN, Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The Congo province of Katanga, which has declared its independence, is in September to send to Israel study missions "in many fields."

Mr. Thomas Tshombe, 29-year-old brother of the Katanga Premier and member of the Katanga Parliament, said this yesterday in an interview with The Jerusalem Post. Mr. Tshombe, who leaves today for Brussels, is to report to his brother on his 20-day visit here as guest of the Foreign Ministry.

Mr. Tshombe, whose visit was sponsored by the Elisabethville Jewish community, said he had discussed recognition of Katanga with the Foreign Ministry. He would not disclose the Ministry's reaction, except to say that he was "very well received."

During his visit, Mr. Tshombe met with farmers, doctors, engineers and Dan business, all of whom, he said, "really want to help us."

On the world scene, Mr. Tshombe said, Katanga would adopt a strictly "positive neutralist" policy. It would be ready to open its gates to all who are ready to help in the development of the country, which is extraordinarily rich in natural resources, including uranium and oil. He added that Katanga welcomed Belgians because it has too few technicians to maintain its existing enterprises or to develop new ones.

"Katanga has a right to be independent, and I hope the U.N. will recognize this. We are a separate nation from Congo, with different traditions and culture. Belgium united us artificially with Congo," Mr. Tshombe said.

Mr. Tshombe charged that the Congolese Premier, Mr. Patrice Lumumba, was "definitely under Communist influence, emanating from Guinea."

Mr. Tshombe, like his brother, was educated in Katanga. He speaks perfect French, and is a protestant. He is of the Lunda tribe. There are 2,000 Jews in Katanga, and very few Moslems.

Belgium Tells Dag Not to Interfere

BRUSSELS (AP). — The Belgian Government told U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold yesterday that the U.N. should keep its hands off Katanga province which has proclaimed its independence of the Congo.

This was announced last night at a press conference by Premier Gaston Eyskens who declared "we request the U.N. not to intervene in the Congo's internal affairs." Mr. Hamarskjold had by then continued his flight to the Congo.

The U.N. Secretary-General had a brief talk with Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny shortly after his arrival here from New York and then moved to the office of Mr. Eyskens for a meeting with the Government's special Congo Committee. This included the Premier, the Minister of Defence, the Foreign Minister, the Deputy Prime Minister, and the two African Affairs Ministers.

U.N. To Katanga

Mr. Hammarskjold refused to talk to reporters, answering almost all questions with a "no comment."

The Belgian radio said the Secretary-General was preceded here by a U.N. memorandum insisting that U.N. troops will occupy Katanga and the Belgian bases in the Congo.

Highly-placed Belgian sources said later in the day that the Belgian Government believes the newly independent Congo Republic should become a U.N. trust territory. "Only a strong U.N. administration can save this country from chaos and disaster," a Belgian official said.

Congo Prime Minister, Patrice Lumumba, arrived in Washington yesterday by air for talks with the U.S. Government and the World Bank about the economic crisis facing his Government.

The 34-year-old leader was met on arrival from New York by Secretary of State Christian Herter, with whom he was to confer later in the day.

Red Cross Ignores Israel Medical Team

GENEVA (AP). — The League of Red Cross Societies has announced that nine countries responded within 48 hours to an urgent U.N. appeal for medical teams for the Congo. (The League did not include Israel in its list, although the Israel team is the only one that has reached Congo so far.)

Nine teams of surgeons, physicians and nurses with experience in tropical medicine have been recruited by Red Cross Societies of Canada, Denmark, Finland, Iran, Lebanon, Norway, Sweden and Yugoslavia. They are to arrive in Leopoldville soon. In addition the Netherlands Red Cross will send a group of blood transfusion experts.

Bulawayo Riots End With Toll of 13 Dead

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (UPI). — Armed troops and police stormed through Bulawayo's Negro settlements yesterday and stamped out the last flickering resistance of a three-day riot that took 13 lives.

More than 360 Africans were arrested, including 41 found looting, yesterday by troops who moved to mop up the last of the trouble-makers. Police recovered big piles of loot including radios, refrigerators and sewing machines.

RICHARD NIXON

No Opposition To Nixon

CHICAGO, (AP).—In relaxed mood, the Republicans whirled through a round of social activities and sightseeing on Wednesday preliminary to their convention's big moment — the nomination of Richard Nixon for President, on Wednesday night.

Tensions and quarrels over the platform had faded. The mood was: close ranks and defeat the Democrats. Vice-President Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who once loomed as prospective antagonists at the convention, breakfasted together in great harmony.

In an informal interview, Nixon made it definite that his Vice-Presidential running-mate will not be selected until today. He said there would be a meeting Wednesday night—or Thursday — of party leaders from all sections to talk about a Vice-Presidential nominee.

Adenauer Due For Talks in Paris

PARIS (Reuter).— West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is expected here this week for a talk on the international situation with President de Gaulle, according to a spokesman of the Premier's office.

The visit has been arranged chiefly at the request of the Chancellor to take place before General de Gaulle's vacation at the beginning of August. Premier Debre will probably not be present at the meeting, because he is due to leave for Madagascar today for the Independence day celebrations.

Chief object of the meeting is to plan systematic cooperation in foreign policy among the Common Market countries, sources close to the Government said. The conversations would mark the starting point of an important New Development in the political life of "Little Europe."

Reject Nazi's Bid For Brazilian Citizenship

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP). — Justice Minister Armando Falcao said here he opposes granting citizenship to a former Lithuanian Nazi, Herbert Cukurs, accused by a Jewish group here of slaying thousands of Jews during World War II. Cukurs, formerly of Riga, has been living here since shortly after the end of the war.

Iran Hits Back at UAR, Expels Envoy; 'Nasser Mad Pharaoh'

Doesn't Recognize Illegal Rule

TEHERAN. — Foreign Minister Ghoiam Abbas Aram announced yesterday evening that Persia had broken off diplomatic relations with the UAR.

Mr. Aram added that the decision, announced earlier, to order the UAR Ambassador, Moharram Hammad, to leave Persia within 24 hours was made after Abdul Nasser, "this feeble-minded Pharaoh who rules by bloodshed," made an anti-Shah speech on the pretext that Persia had now recognized Israel.

Mr. Aram said that Iran did not recognize Nasser's "illegal regime."

Mr. Aram told a news conference that Nasser's excuse for breaking off relations — that Iran had recognized Israel — was "mad."

"The truth is that Iran recognized Israel on a de facto basis 10 years ago and sent a representative there. This representative was withdrawn later on for specific reasons, and no new representative has been despatched."

The Cairo press yesterday morning published a note from the Arab League accusing Persia of conspiring with Israel and other Western countries against the Arab nations.

The note, which will be submitted to the meeting of Arab League Foreign Ministers in Beirut on August 22, said that Persian-UAR relations had been aggravated since the 1956 Suez Crisis.

Continuing the coordinated assault on the Shah, the Secretary-General of Arab trade unions, Asaad Ragueb, yesterday denounced the "vile step" taken by the Shah in "selling himself out to Zionism." He appealed to the Persian people to correct the situation by whatever means seemed to them suitable.

However, Beirut's leading daily, "Al Khyat," wrote in an editorial yesterday that Nasser's speech attacking the Shah "was to be regretted," and that Nasser had been over-hasty. The paper feared that the speech would have the opposite effect of that intended on Persia.

Syrians on Shooting Spree Blast at Ghost Patrol

KIRYAT SHMONA. — Syrian soldiers after midnight yesterday opened indiscriminate fire with machineguns, threw grenades and shot flares up into the air in the Shamir area. The shooting lasted more than half-an-hour.

It is believed that the shooting was touched off by some trigger-happy soldier who became frightened, infecting his equally nervous comrades.

The fire was not directed towards the Israel settlements.

In Damascus, a spokesman for the Syrian First Army alleged, according to Reuter, that Syrian positions, by intensive fire, forced back an Israel patrol which had attempted to cross the border early in the day. He claimed that the patrol carried "a number," of casualties.

Curfew in Yemen Following Bombings

ADEN (Reuter). — A night curfew has been imposed in the main towns of central and southern Yemen following new bomb incidents in Ibb and Taiz last week, usually reliable sources said yesterday.

Government buildings and the houses of leading Yemen officials are reported to be under heavy guard. Several people were reported killed in last week's incidents.

India Giving Iran American Wheat

NEW DELHI (UPI).—The Indian Government has agreed to supply 50,000 tons of American wheat to Iran to alleviate that country's grain shortage.

The Government said yesterday that some ships carrying U.S. surplus wheat to India would be diverted to Iran with the approval of the U.S. Government. Iranian wheat output is expected to be 300,000 tons short this year because of severe drought.

LEVAVI DENIES SEEING EICHMANN

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP). — Israel Ambassador Arye Levavi, expelled from Argentina, said during a stop-over here yesterday that there may be more Nazi war criminals hiding in Latin America, but none so dangerous as Adolf Eichmann.

He denied having any knowledge of the circumstances surrounding Eichman's seizure in Buenos Aires. "I never saw Eichmann, nor do I want to see him," he said. "I do not have the slightest knowledge about the capture of this war criminal in Argentina."

Two More Plotters Arrested in Jordan

AMMAN (Reuter). — Two Communists who had been sentenced in absentia to 15 and 12 years' imprisonment respectively, were arrested at Irbid on Tuesday, it was officially announced yesterday.

They were held by the security forces which also arrested Colonel Kassem Nasser, a discharged Jordanian army officer accused of plotting to overthrow the regime at the instigation of the U.A.R.

It is believed that the two had been in exile in Syria together with Col. Nasser.

In an official comment on the charges against Col. Nasser, Cairo Radio said last night that they were false allegations "invented by the arch-imperialist agent King Hussein who fears for his throne and makes one with his brother imperialist agent, the Shah of Iran."

Tunisia Votes For Suez Freedom

POST Political Reporter

Tunisia supported a resolution against the UAR blockade of Israel shipping and trade, which was overwhelmingly approved on Tuesday by the Seafarers Section of the International Transport Workers Federation, it is learned in Jerusalem.

The resolution, which terms the Egyptian blockade a "condition intolerable" to seamen, is to be discussed and voted upon within the next two days by the Federation's 26th congress, meeting this week in Berne. Only the UAR, Pakistan and Aden voted against the draft resolution proposed by the Seafarers Section.

TUNISIA TO BOYCOTT LEAGUE MEETING

Tunisia has informed the Arab League that it will not attend the forthcoming conference of Arab Foreign Ministers in Beirut because its dispute with the UAR has been removed from the conference agenda, ANA reports.

Anti-Castro Steps in 3 S.A. Republics; Cuban Agent Shot

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP). — Caracas police on Wednesday shot and seriously wounded Andres Cova Salas, director of Fidel Castro's 26th of July movement in Venezuela.

Cova was shot five times as police sought to question him at his home in connection with pro-Castro disturbances on Tuesday which left one dead and 13 injured. It was not immediately clear whether Cova resisted a police patrol at his home but a police spokesman indicated that was the case. The members of the police patrol who shot Cova were later detained pending investigation.

Tuesday's disturbances developed after a pro-Castro crowd surrounded the Caracas cathedral where Cuban exiles were praying for deliverance of their homeland from Communist influence. Shots fired by unknown individuals scattered the demonstrators but they assembled again and were broken up by steel-helmeted police patrols. Later disturbances developed in the downtown sections of Caracas.

In Guatemala a government communique yesterday accused Cuba of "intervention" in a recent abortive uprising in Coban province. The communique said four Cubans and a Guatemalan rebel Lieutenant were seized by Honduran immigration authorities as they crossed the border in flight.

In Rio de Janeiro the Brazilian Government yesterday ordered a Cuban diplomat to leave the country within three days. It accused him of spreading Communist propaganda among Brazilian students and Labour unions. The diplomat, an aide at the Cuban Embassy, is Jose Manuel Vega Suarez, who police said had been expelled from Brazil in 1956 as a communist agitator.

Jacob Mouchly Dies Abroad at 74

HAIFA. — Jacob Mouchly, one of the country's outstanding engineers, passed away this week in Zurich at the age of 74. He suffered a heart attack. His remains will be brought to Israel early next week for burial in the family plot in Binyamina.

Mouchly was born in Jaffa, attended the Alliance Israelite school and studied engineering in Germany. In 1910, he was taken on as a foreman at the Hedjas Railway Workshop in Damascus and soon rose to become its Chief Mechanical Engineer. The British military authorities called him to Haifa in 1919 to become the first senior Jewish official of Palestine Railways. He retired in 1934 to his Mount Carmel home to devote himself to promoting his own engineering ideas.

He is survived by his wife, a son, also an engineer, and a daughter.

Ike Says U.S. Now Strongest Power and Richer Than Ever

CHICAGO (AP). — President Eisenhower on Tuesday night challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev to agree to world-wide free elections — under U.N. auspices — on whether people everywhere want to live under a "Communist regime or under a free system such as is found in the U.S."

Speaking at the Republican Party convention, Mr. Eisenhower vehemently spoke up for his Administration's foreign policy.

On the defence situation, he said: "In the sum of our capabilities, we have become the strongest military power on earth." As for the general picture of the U.S. after nearly eight years of office, the President said: "The irrefutable truths are that the U.S. is enjoying an unprecedented prosperity; that it has, in cooperation with its friends and allies, the strongest security system in the world, and that it is working ceaselessly and effectively for a peace with justice, in freedom."

In his challenge to Mr. Khrushchev, the U.S. President said:

"The Soviet dictator has said that he has, in his recent journeys and speeches, succeeded in damaging the prestige of America. Concerning this matter of comparative national prestige, I challenge him to make this test:

"Will he agree to the holding of free elections under the sponsorship of the U.N. — to permit people everywhere in every nation and on every continent, to vote on one simple, simple issue:

"That issue is: Do you want to live under a Communist regime or under a free system such as found in the U.S.?

Soviet Prestige

"Are the Soviets willing to measure their world prestige by the results of such elections? The U.S. would gladly do so."

Mr. Eisenhower continued: "Only a few months ago, the men in the Kremlin were calling for complete and total disarmament. But suddenly thereafter they began devising one crisis after another.

"They brutally wrecked the summit conference; they have threatened us with missiles, and today they cold-bloodedly boast of shooting down one of our planes legitimately travelling over intercontinental waters.

"All such events, emphasizing the tactical unpredictability and shiftiness of Soviet leaders, call for constant analysis and reappraisal.

"At the moment I am planning an early conference with Congressional leaders of both parties on these significant events. Depending upon developments in the meantime, I shall make such recommendations for any changes in our own national programme as may then seem appropriate.

"High in our thinking about the future of the world must be the fact that millions of people are crushed under the heavy heel of Communist imperialism. The conscience of America can never be completely clear until the precious right of freedom of choice is extended to all people, everywhere."

The President also said: "The (U.S.) economic story can be quickly and succinctly and accurately told. There are more Americans today employed, at higher wages and with more take-home pay than ever before in our history. And today they have more confidence in the stability of their money than they have enjoyed in three decades.

In these past seven-and-a-half years (of Republican government) the annual gross national product has increased by one hundred billion dollars — or 25 per cent."

Constant Alert

On the might of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, Mr. Eisenhower noted: "A third of this great force, deployed strategically around the world, is maintained on continuous 15-minute alert, able to take off within minutes, carrying unimaginable destructive power.

"The army of the U.S. which was sent into the Korean war, was but a slightly updated version of the army with which we fought world War II. Since then, the Army and the Marines have been reorganized and re-equipped to fight under every conceivable condition. New man-carried guided missiles and nuclear-capable rockets are giving the foot-soldier a vastly greater power than ever that of a big bomber of World War II."

Four-Way 'Cocktail' Shot To Inoculate Children

COPENHAGEN (Reuter). — A Canadian scientist told poliomyelitis specialists here yesterday that children of the future would probably be given a "cocktail vaccine" protecting them from polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Dr. D.R.E. Macleod, of the University of Toronto, told the Fifth International Poliomyelitis Conference that latest research indicated that children would not have to have separate immunization against polio. It was hoped they would be given the "cocktail vaccine" in the first few months of their lives.

Three Canadian laboratories had already produced such a vaccine, and it had been found that the "cocktail" gave just as effective protection against polio as the polio vaccine by itself.

He said a triple vaccine against diphtheria, tetanus and polio was now in regular use at the third or fourth injection — the "booster" — which is designed to give long immunization against polio. Half-a-million doses of a combined polio-tetanus vaccine had already been given in Canada, Dr. Macleod said.

New Substance

At the conference on Tuesday, delegates were told of a new substance, Interferon, now being investigated as a possible ally in the fight against viruses. It is produced by human cells and and has proved the first effective check to virus growth.

Dr. Alick Isaacs, the London scientist who first isolated Interferon, said that in its present stage of development, the virus killer is mainly of theoretical importance. But he added that it may well be useful, in the future, as a means to stop virus infections.

When human cells are attacked by virus, Dr. Isaacs said, there is a change in the glucose consumption in the cells, produced by the presence of Interferon. Since the virus needs energy to reproduce, and cannot get it from the glucose-depleted cells, it starves and disappears.

It is well known that man develops a certain resistance to many virus diseases, but the first attack would be dangerous unless there was a defence. Interferon is the defender against the first attack, Dr. Isaacs believes.

Build Defences

There is no Interferon present on the first day of a virus attack, it has been found. The next day there is a tremendous release of Interferon in the cells as the body mobilizes its defences, the concentration remaining high for at least a week.

To make man safe against virus attacks, the Interferon must be present in the cells before the attack begins, and its production can be induced by the introduction of even small amounts.

Some 700 scientists from 44 nations, both East and West, are taking part in the conference.

Among the Americans are Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who made the first anti-polio vaccine, and Dr. Albert E. Sabin, who produced the live virus polio vaccine used in Russia.

Seven Alpinists Die In Fall off Glacier

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italian Alps (Reuter). — A rescue team yesterday found the bodies of seven Italian climbers, including three women, at the glacier of 3,283-metre-high Mount Antelao, 15 kilometres southeast of here, a report reaching Cortina said.

The report said they were roped together and were apparently killed when they plunged about 800 metres down a crevasse.

The rescuers — Alpine guides and police — set out yesterday morning when the seven climbers, aged between 21 and 28, failed to return to their hotel at San Vito di Cadore.

N.Y. Policeman Said Plotting Against U.K.

NEW YORK (AP). — A New York policeman has been named by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan as "the undercover man in charge of security" for a terrorist organization bent on overthrowing British rule in Jamaica.

The law official said Patrolman Noel J. Agard, 29, has been charged with taking part in New York robberies to raise funds for the Jamaica revolutionary movement.

Agard and seven other men held in connection with at least six robberies are said to be members of the First Africa Corps, a Negro group formed in Jamaica in 1958 to fight British rule.

SHORTER SERVICES FOR CATHOLICS

VATICAN CITY (AP). — Pope John, in a major liturgical reform for the Roman Catholic Church, announced yesterday that a new code of rubrics for the Roman breviary and mass would become effective next January 1.

He said the new code, to be promulgated shortly, combines the rubrics "in a better form, arranged in a clearer order." He said religious services would be shortened and simplified.

But the Pope added an exhortation. He said the abbreviations in the Divine Office, resulting from the new rubrics, should be "compensated by a recitation made with greater diligence and devotion."

He said reforms shortening the daily services had been requested by many bishops, especially for priests "who every day have more and more pastoral preoccupations."

LAW REPORT

The Jerusalem Post July 28, 1960

In the Supreme Court Sitting as Court Of Civil Appeals

Before Justices Silberg, Sussman and Witkon.

The National Insurance Institute, Appellants, v. The Central Housing and Building Company Ltd. & Others, Respondents (C.A. 62/60).

National Insurance Institute's Claim Rejected

The Supreme Court dismissed an appeal against a judgment of the Jerusalem District Court delivered on January 31, 1960 (In C.C. 235/58).

Yehuda Cohen was killed in a work accident. The National Insurance Institute paid his dependents benefits to the value of IL12,633 and then sued the Central Housing and Building Company, who were responsible for the accident, for restitution of these benefits under section 70(a) of the National Insurance Law, 1954.

This section provides that: "If the event which requires the Institute to pay a benefit under this Law is also a ground for requiring a third party to pay compensation to the same person under the Civil Wrongs Ordinance, the Institute may claim from such third party compensation for the benefit paid or to be paid by it" (authorized translation).

The deceased's estate also sued the company, under section 14 of the Civil Wrongs Ordinance, but his dependents, who could have sued them under section 55 of the Ordinance, failed to do so. Judge Ben-Porath of the Jerusalem District Court awarded the deceased's widow, as his heir, IL500 damages, and ordered this sum to be handed over to the National Insurance Institute in accordance with section 70(a) of the National Insurance Law. Judge Ben-Porath, however, rejected the Institute's demand for the full sum of IL12,633 which they had paid to the deceased's dependents, holding that although the Institute stands in place of those entitled to damages from the wrongdoer and may claim such sums as the deceased's dependents would have been entitled to, it had failed to mention what these sums were in the statement of claim.

She further expressed doubt as to whether the Institute could claim from the third party at all if the deceased's dependents had failed to exercise their right to do so under section 55 of the Civil Wrongs Ordinance.

The Institute appealed against the District Court judgment. Mr. Mayer appeared for the appellant and Mr. Schneider for the respondents.

Judgment

Justice Sussman, who delivered the judgment of the Supreme Court, Justice Silberg and Witkon concurring, said that he could find no fault with the District Court's decision that the appellant is entitled only to what the dependents of the deceased would have been entitled to (see also C.A. 61/55, Psakim 22/79). He did not, however, he continued, subscribe to Judge Ben-Porath's doubts concerning the appellant's right to claim from a third party even though the dependents fail to exercise their rights under section 55 of the Civil Wrongs Ordinance. For, in his opinion, he continued, there is nothing to prevent the appellant from taking the necessary legal steps in order to realize the rights conferred upon it by section 70(a) of the National Insurance Law. All that the appellant would be required to prove in order to press its claim, he continued, is that it paid benefits under the National Insurance Law which entitled it to claim restitution from the third party and that such material facts exist as would have entitled the persons to whom benefits were or are to be paid to claim compensation from the third party.

It is in this latter respect, continued Justice Sussman, that the appellant had fallen down. For the Institute's statement of claim in the District Court had failed to reveal who the persons are who would be entitled to claim from the respondents under section 55, to what extent they were dependent on the deceased and what was the extent of the damage suffered by them. Judge Ben-Porath had been correct, therefore, in holding that the statement of claim had failed to disclose a cause of action.

However, he continued, if a defendant does not object to a statement of claim which does not contain particulars of the persons involved and of the damage suffered by such persons respectively — as demanded by section 55 (c) — but defends the action as it stands, then he cannot afterwards rely on the lack of these particulars as a defence. In the present case, he held the respondents had not challenged the omissions in the appellant's statement of claim so that the latter had been entitled to prove who the deceased's defendants were and what was the damage sustained by them, despite the absence of these particulars in the statement of claim. It had, however, failed to produce sufficient proof of this in the District Court and the appeal should, therefore, be dismissed.

Appeal dismissed with IL300 costs.

Judgment given on June 30, 1960.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
TO SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT NO. 14
The I.P.O. Management deeply regrets that the opera "La Forza del Destino" could not be performed as the programme of the Special Subscription Concert No. 14 as scheduled owing to the sudden indisposition of the tenor, Richard Tucker.
It is known that he was not feeling well on Saturday night but he nevertheless made an appearance and hoped that by the 26th he would be in normal voice again. However, on the afternoon of Tuesday notice was received by the I.P.O. Management of Mr. Tucker's inability to appear that night and a re-arrangement of the programme had therefore to be made. A special rehearsal was called for and the Management apologizes to those people who were kept waiting outside the hall because the rehearsal was not yet finished. The Orchestra Management wishes publicly to express its grateful thanks to the conductor, Erich Leinsdorf, and the guest singers Lucine Amara, Giorgio Tozzi and Mario Zanasi for the splendid efforts they made to present a fitting substitute-concert and also thanks the majority of the audience who appreciated the situation and who so warmly applauded the guest artists.

Palestine's Second Oldest Fort Found In Tel Gat

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Remains of fortifications of an early settlement at Tel Gat, which with the exception of the Neolithic fortifications of Jericho is the earliest system to have so far been uncovered in Palestine, were unearthed during the fifth season of excavations on the Tel. The early settlement dates from about 3,000 B.C.E.

Female Head, in limestone, found at Tel Gat, about 11 cms. high, and attributed to the Persian or Hellenistic period.

This was reported to the press yesterday in Jerusalem by Mr. S. Yeivin, director of the expedition.

The bread wall of the fortifications, more than five metres thick, was built of well-bonded mud bricks, with an earth glacis sloping down from it. Mud brick projections, like teeth, project at regular intervals from the main wall.

Further excavation of the site is planned for next season.

Roman Academy

The excavations were conducted under the auspices of the Department of Antiquities, in cooperation with the Centro per le Antichita e la Storia dell'Arte dei Vicino Oriente of the Instito per l'Oriente of Rome.

This season the expedition worked on three areas of the many strata of settlement. For the first time during work on this site, an undisturbed room, attributed to the Persian strata (the third layer from the top, fifth century B.C.E.), was uncovered. Several vessels typical of this period were found.

Unexplained Pavement

No building remains were found below the strata uncovered last season (sixth to tenth layers), but an extensive lime plaster pavement was unearthed. The purpose of this enclosed paved area is not clear, Mr. Yeivin said.

An attempt was also made to re-examine the remains of the industrial installations discovered last season, with the help of Prof. R. Heimann, of the Haifa Technion. No final conclusions were reached, but there was some evidence that these installations were used for domestic food industries.

High Court Delays Work Of Rabbinate Elections C'ttee

Jerusalem Post Reporter

An interim order preventing Rabbi Y. L. Maimon from convening the Chief Rabbinate Elections Committee was yesterday granted by the High Court.

The order nisi was granted by Justice Landau at the request of Mr. Avraham Zafania a resident of Bnei Brak, against the Minister for Religious Affairs, the Elections Committee, Rabbi Maimon and Rabbi Amram Aburavia, whose appointment to the Committee was later invalidated by the Chief Rabbinical Council. The order calls on the respondents to show cause, within two weeks, why the Ministry for Religious Affairs, together with the Chief Rabbinical Council, should not convene a new meeting of the Elections Committee, after the Rabbinate appoints new representatives to the Committee or after Rabbi E. Mordechai is invited to attend the meeting in Rabbi Aburavia's place.

(Rabbi Mordechai was named by the Rabbinical Council in place of Rabbi Aburavia.)

No Legal Basis

The applicant claims that the Committee no longer has any legal basis since Rabbi Aburavia was withdrawn from the Committee by the Rabbinate and the Rabbinate's remaining three representatives resigned.

Mr. Zafania describes himselves as "a citizen who needs the religious services provided by the Chief Rabbinate," and who therefore has an interest in the legality of the elections.

Won't Delay Elections

Religious Ministry circles asked whether the legal proceedings could hold up the elections and achieve the postponement pressed for by National Religious Party Ministers, said that the Elections Committee had little to do now in any case. It is waiting for the lists of candidates for the electoral college to be submitted by the Chief Rabbinate and the Minister for Religious Affairs.

About three weeks remain during which the lists must be supplied to the committee, failing which the Election Committee has the right to secure them itself.

It is learned from authoritative Government circles that the Cabinet will postpone discussion of the proposal of the Minister of Interior to put off the Chief Rabbinate elections for a year until the High Court hands down its ruling.

Spray Plane Pilot Crashes to Death

KIRYAT GAT. — A 29-year-old Chim-Avir pilot, Amnon Kruvi, of Tel Aviv, was killed yesterday afternoon when his spray plane crashed over fields of Moshav Usa in the Lachish region.

Eye-witnesses say the plane was circling when caught by a cross wind that prevented it from gaining altitude. A rescue team arrived by Air Force helicopter several minutes after the crash, but the body had already been taken away by a Magen David Adom ambulance.

Kruvi was a captain in the Air Force reserves. He leaves a widow and an infant daughter. (Him)

Wife of Ex-M.K. Takes Alimony Cut

TEL AVIV. — The IL400 a month alimony payment demanded by Mrs. Rina Yehuda was declared on Wednesday to be exorbitant by Judge Y. Lamm, who ordered her husband, Mr. Haim Yehuda, a former Knesset member, to pay his wife only IL300 a month.

Mr. Yehuda told the court that at present he was paying his wife IL200 a month as well as providing another IL70 towards the rent on the apartment she occupies.

In her suit for IL400, Mrs. Yehuda said that her husband had deserted her after 30 years of marriage. She had recently fractured her leg and had to pay a maid to help take care of her and her apartment.

Mr. Yehuda told the court that his wife "had locked him" out of the apartment. His suit for divorce is pending in the rabbinical court, he said, and would come up at the end of this month.

He charged that his wife had sued for alimony "to ruin me financially and to destroy my standing in the community." Due to the gossip which had enveloped the entire affair, he had had to resign his seat in the Knesset. At present he "had neither position nor property."

Judge Lamm noted that his decision ordering Mr. Yehuda to pay IL200 a month was in force only until the rabbinical court ruled on the divorce proceedings.

At one point in the proceedings, Judge Lamm asked Mrs. Yehuda her age. Her lawyer, Mr. S. Cohen-Zidon replied that his client was "about 50."

"Fifty," Mr. Yehuda said, "she's 65."

"I'm 45," Mrs. Yehuda corrected him.

DRAFT DODGER FINED IL500

TEL AVIV. — An army shirker "who sat at home in comfort while others fought for him" was fined IL500 on Wednesday by Magistrate L. Ogen.

The man, Moshe Shalom, 37, of Ramat Gan, admitted that he had failed to register for Army service when his turn came in 1953, but added in his defence that he had not known "if he had to undergo a regular term of army service or only to appear for reserve duty." Therefore he did nothing.

Mrs. Ogen refused to accept this as a mitigating circumstance, pointing out that it was his business to clarify his army obligations, not to shirk them. (Him)

Tucker Apologizes For Indisposition

TEL AVIV. — "I wish to apologize to the Tel Aviv opera-going public for the disappointment last night," Richard Tucker, the Metropolitan Opera Tenor, told a press conference yesterday.

Tucker, who was suffering from a sore throat, was unable to appear at the concert performance of Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" scheduled by the Philharmonic Orchestra for the Mann Auditorium on Tuesday night. A near riot developed among the disappointed audience.

Tucker declared that he was feeling the strain of overwork — five appearances during seven days, four of them concerts and the fifth as cantor in the Great Synagogue in Tel Aviv on Friday night.

"I had to appear in the Synagogue — it was my father's yahrzeit," he explained.

The tenor added that if he had strained his voice further by singing on Tuesday, he would have had to miss Thursday evening's performance, his last on this tour. He is leaving the country Friday.

Mr. A. Cohen, Director of the I.P.O., said that it would be known only this morning (Thursday) if Mr. Tucker is able to appear.

The I.P.O.'s Director stressed that despite the tumult in the audience that followed the announcement Tuesday evening of Tucker's indisposition, only six persons took advantage of the I.P.O.'s offer of a refund. (Him)

U.K. CABINET

Soames becomes Minister of Agriculture, in place of Mr. John Hare who is now Minister of Labour.

Foreign Affairs Minister of State, John Profumo, is named Secretary of War.

Mr. Enoch Powell, who resigned from a junior post at the same time as Mr. Thorneycroft, becomes Minister of Health.

Viscount Hailsham, while retaining his post as Minister for Science, becomes Lord President of the Council instead of Lord Privy Seal. He will also be leader of the house of Lords in succession to the Earl of Home.

Mr. Heathcoat Amory and Mr. Allan Lennox-Boyde were given the title of Viscount and Mr. Walter-Smith the title of Baron.

No fundamental change in the Conservative Government's foreign or domestic policies are expected to result from these changes.

The Earl of Home

The Earl of Home is a 57-year-old Scot who pronounces his name "Hume" and is little known outside Britain. He is the fourteenth holder of one of Scotland's most illustrious peerages. He is a wealthy landowner.

For the last five years he was Secretary of State for Commonwealth Affairs. He is credited with having helped avert a damaging split within the Commonwealth at the time of the Suez affair, through skilful diplomatic management.

Educated at Eton and Oxford, Lord Home started out in politics at the age of 26.

He held minor Government appointments and was Parliamentary Private Secretary to Neville Chamberlain when he was Chancellor of the Exchequer. This was the beginning of an association that lasted until the former Premier's retirement from politics. Lord Home worked with Chamberlain during the troubled years leading to World War II and attended the Munich conference with him.

Mine Detector Used In Murder Probe

ACRE. — Mine detectors were brought into play yesterday as police searched Dir Hanna Village for the rifle used in the murder of a 14-year-old shepherd boy near the village earlier this week.

The boy, Mahmud Dahoud Asali, of nearby Arbat el-Batouf, who had been minding his flock between Dir Hanna and Arabe, was found dead with six bullet wounds in his body. The mine detector was used to reveal possible arms caches.

In the course of the investigation, four villagers from Dir Hanna were arrested, and were remanded in Acre on Wednesday by Judge A. Malul for 15 days. Three of the men are members of the Hatib family.

The four suspects in the case steadfastly claim their innocence, putting the blame on a mysterious infiltrator. According to Dir Hanna villagers, the boy actually was beaten to death first, and then shot solely to mislead police investigators.

CURRENCY IN circulation declined by IL7,893,581 during the week ending Tuesday to stand at IL308,921,480, the Bank of Israel reported on Wednesday. Gold reserves rose by IL108, to stand at IL3,427,531; foreign currency reserves decreased by IL7,839,697 to stand at IL158,831,345, and Treasury bills and Government promissory notes remained unchanged.

Realized Wish To Pray in Old City

Clutching his prayer bag containing his tallit and tefillin, Rabbi Shimon Rubin, 46, of Jerusalem, was returned to Israel Wednesday at Mandelbaum Gate in Jerusalem.

He crossed into Jordan on Saturday morning to pray at the Western Wall, but he was arrested as soon as he entered the Sheikh Jarrah quarter.

"At least, I managed to pray in the Old City," he said upon his return. His prayer bag was sent to him on Tuesday by his family through the Mixed Armistice Commission.

"But I did not get to pray at the Western Wall. I offered a Jordanian warden $25 to take me to the Wall through a side street, but he said he was afraid."

During his imprisonment, he was questioned at length by a Hebrew-speaking interrogator on various phases of Israel's political and economic life. He was treated decently in jail, although water was on short rations, probably due to the drought in Jordan.

Nevertheless, he thought that members of Natorei Karta — to which the Jordanians thought he belonged — were misleading themselves if they thought they would fare better under Arab rule.

Bus Co-ops Accept Histadrut Rulings

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The three bus cooperatives will abide by the Histadrut Central Committees' decision of Tuesday under which no new men will be accepted for permanent employment, while the cooperatives' present hired workers will be admitted to full membership by October 1.

This was stated here yesterday by spokesmen of the cooperatives. They said they considered the Histadrut's stand as "reasonable," and there was no cause for conflict with the Labour Federation.

(The Histadrut ordered that 250 Egged employees be granted membership by September 1 and another 300 by October 1.)

Dan, also, will accept as members hired workers holding bus driving licences. Both this cooperative and Hamekasher were ordered to admit their hired workers to membership along the same general lines as Egged, but with necessary adjustments in keeping with their size.

The three companies will hold a joint meeting Friday.

Machine Washes Dan Buses Every Other Day

TEL AVIV.— Dan buses will be washed down every second night now, instead of fortnightly. The operation will take 90 seconds instead of 20 minutes, in an Emanuel bus-cleaning machine, the first of its kind in Israel, which the company has imported from Italy.

This was announced at a press conference at the Dan garage here yesterday, at which the $16,000 machine was put on show. The machine is run by one man, and Dan has ordered a second which it is expected to put into operation within three months.

Insurance Firms Lend Haifa Half-a-Million

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — Haifa has been granted a IL500,000 loan for seven years by the pool of insurance companies, the new City Treasurer, Mr. S. Sharon, announced yesterday. The insurance companies are charging 7.5 per cent interest, but the loan is linked to the official rate of exchange for the dollar.

The insurance company pool includes Hassneh, Migdal, Zion, Judea, Binyan, Menorah, Sahar and Aryeh.

J'lem Slum Dwellers Getting New Homes

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Mayor Mordecai Ish-Shalom, of Jerusalem, on Wednesday informed the Municipal Finance Committee that the Housing Division of the Ministry of Labour had agreed to start work within a fortnight on 300 flats for Jerusalemites living in condemned or sub-standard housing. One hundred will be built in Rehov Shmuel Hanavi, 100 in Romema and 100 in the southern quarters.

Pacific Wave Becomes 'Rosy Cloud'

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The American Liberty ship, Pacific Wave, is to be renamed "Ching Yung," (Chinese for rosy cloud) before she sails for her new home waters. Her new crew of 39 arrived by air from Formosa on Sunday.

The ship was bought in public auction by the Chinese Maritime Trust, of Taiwan, for $118,000 after the New York owners defaulted on their debts, including the crew's wages. The Pacific Wave brought a cargo of grain to Haifa last autumn.

The crew found the vessel in a badly neglected state after having been tied up for many months outside the main breakwater. Energetic scrubbing and painting is now under way. The flag of Taiwan will be hoisted on the ship's mast today.

Though still seaworthy, the Pacific Wave attracted few buyers because she is subject to regulations of the U.S. Maritime Commission, which preclude her from calling at the port of a Communist country and which require her owners to post a bond of $100,000 with the Commission in Washington. This restrictive clause has deterred many would-be buyers and forced the price down from the $300,000 which experts say she is worth.

Military Academy Graduates Class of 18

HAIFA. — Eighteen young men, who passed a two-year rigorous para-military course, on Wednesday staged a passing-out parade at the Biram Military Academy on Mt. Carmel in the presence of the Chief of Staff, Rav-Aluf Haim Laskov.

The graduates, who combined the last two years of their secondary school education at the Reali school with enough military training to qualify them for officer's school.

To cope with the extensive training programme, the two-year course has now been extended to three years. This year the Defence Ministry will pay the tuition fees of those last year students at the Reali School if they sign up for two years in the Regular Army on completing their military service.

INDUSTRY FINANCE and COMMERCE

Rental Housing 'Desirable' But Still Too Dear for Immigrants

Minister of Labour Golda Josephthal said yesterday that the resumption of building for rental is "desirable and maybe even essential." But this was not the solution for new immigrants or for people who live in slums or the like.

He was replying in the Knesset to motions for the agenda by Mr. Yosef Saphir (General Zionists) and Mr. Shabtai Schlichman (Herut).

Both speakers complained that the report of the Lehmann Committee favouring rental housing has been ignored by the Government for a year and a half. Mr. Saphir characterized this as "irresponsible" while Mr. Schlichman called it "contemptuous" of the public representatives who had given of their time to serve on the committee and "sabotage" of the prospects of resuming rental housing.

Dr. Josephthal replied that satisfactory rent is regarded as 12 per cent of total investment a year. For example, if a builder invests as little as IL8,000 in a flat — and this would be no larger than 50 sq. m. — the monthly rental would have to be IL80 (The 12 per cent breaks down into 6-7 per cent profit for the investor, 2-3 per cent for depreciation, and three per cent for management expenses and municipal rates.)

Rent Too Dear

Such rent was above the means of persons living in ma'barot or in depressed neighbourhoods or who were new immigrants. And two-thirds of the people who sought Government housing assistance fall into this category, the Minister declared.

The Ministry had come to an agreement with Rassco and Amidar for the construction of 1,200 flats, using foreign capital on which the Government pays a subsidy of three per cent p.a. on the investment for eight years.

Taking the same example of an IL8,000 investment and rent of IL80, the Government would thus cover IL24 of the rent, bringing down the rent payable by the tenant to IL55-60. But even this was too high for the immigrant right off the boat. The plan was designed mainly for young couples resident in development areas.

Dr. Josephthal expressed the hope that further investors would come in on this subsidised housing scheme.

Lehmann Report

He then went on to the Lehmann Committee report, which he said recommended the repeal of the Tenants Protection Law with regard to new flats. He not only agreed with this, but would like to eliminate rent controls on all structures built since 1948. (At present new buildings are exempted from rent control for the first ten years only.)

The Minister also agreed with the Committee's recommendations on the elimination of red tape and on the encouragement of foreign investors. Two things had been done already: the benefits of the Law for the Encouragement of Capital Investment had been extended to building for rental; and investments in rental housing had been exempted from inheritance tax.

Upset Tax Structure

But Dr. Josephthal could not agree with the Committee's recommendation that municipal rates be reduced on rental housing or that the Government refund levies on building materials. This would undermine the tax structure, and he thought that here the Committee had made a big mistake. Instead, he preferred the present system of housing subsidies.

He proposed that the motions be referred to the Labour Committee. The Speaker gave the Members the choice of voting for a debate in the plenary or referral to committee. A majority voted for committee, Herut voting together with the General Zionists for a debate, and then with the Coalition for referral to committee.

Eshkol Defends Loan for Ports

Receipt of a loan from the World Bank for port development will not diminish State ownership of the ports by one iota, Finance Minister Levi Eshkol told the Knesset yesterday in reply to a motion for the agenda by Mr. Tewfik Toubi (Communist).

Mr. Eshkol said that the negotiations on the port development loan were nearing completion. When the time came to establish the port authority recommended by Mr. Eugene Black, the President of the World Bank, the Knesset would have the opportunity to debate the matter.

As far as the Dead Sea Works are concerned, negotiations for a loan were only at an early stage, and a Knesset debate would be premature.

Mr. Toubi's motion failed, after receiving only Communist votes. A motion by Dr. A. Altman (Herut) to refer the subject to committee failed, 22-14. It was supported by Herut, the General Zionists, Agudat Yisrael and the Communists.

Speaker Kadish Luz broke his gavel yesterday, banging it in an effort to keep Mr. Moshe Sneh (Communist) from interrupting Mr. Eshkol during his reply to the motion for the agenda of Mr. Toubi. An usher immediately provided a substitute gavel.

Dagon Fights for Eilat Job

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The Dagon Company on Tuesday asked the State Controller to investigate the circumstances under which the Transport Ministry awarded the contract for handling bulk cargoes in Eilat Port to another firm despite assurances that Dagon would get the job.

In talks with the Ministry beginning last January, Dagon says it had offered to invest up to IL4m. in the installations at Eilat and to operate them for three years without profit. The bid was submitted with an understanding that Dagon would get the contract if its price was reasonable.

However, early this month the company management learned from press reports that the job would go to another firm. A week later the Transport Minister wrote to say that a committee had found that there was only one quay in Eilat and that there was no room for two contractors.

The job was given to United Port Services, the Solel Boneh subsidiary which runs the Haifa stevedoring concession.

"We have made it clear to the Minister that no quay is necessary to handle bulk goods at Eilat," the company states in its letter to the controller. To illustrate its case, Dagon enclosed a photograph of the bulk handling installation at Akaba Port, which last year handled one million tons of bulk goods, mainly potash, without taking up any quay space at all.

"Denying this contract to the Dagon company is in direct contradiction to the declared policy of the Ministries of Commerce and Industry, of Finance, and of Development, to encourage private enterprise and capital in undertaking development work in the Negev.

June Imports Less Than in 1959

Israel's imports in June came to $28.6m., slightly less than the figure of $29.6m. for the corresponding month of last year, the Central Bureau of Statistics reported last night. Since exports during June were relatively high, the trade deficit of $17.6m. was 15 per cent smaller than the deficit for June 1959.

Total figures for imports in the first half of 1960 came to $200.6m., as compared with $212.8m. in the first six months of 1959.

ITALY LOOKS TO FANFANI

Smaller Parties Support Christian Democrats

By NINETTA JUCKER

ROME (OSTS). — ALTHOUGH fragile and exposed to many dangers, the new emergency Italian Government — composed entirely of Christian Democrats headed by their left-wing leader, Amintore Fanfani, and supported by Liberals, Republicans and Social Democrats —is probably the only formation that could restore calm to the country and allow Parliament to recover its authority.

Three weeks ago Italy was on the verge of insurrection. The neo-Fascist party, whose votes were necessary to Signor Tambroni's Government, had gained such confidence that it thought it could flout public opinion by holding its congress in a city which had bitter memories of the Fascist regime. The riots in Genoa and the disorders which followed in various parts of Italy were the result of this error of judgment.

Ex-Fascists in Police

The fascists found they had no one on their side but the police. The undeniable gusto with which the police—even the hitherto popular Carabinieri—dealt with the population during the disorders in Reggio, Rome and Palermo, is, to Italians, the outstanding fact of this torrid and turbulent July. They have made the disquieting discovery that the police corps is manned to a considerable extent by ex-Fascists.

It is this fact which caused all the anti-fascist parties from the Liberals to the Socialists, and even to the Communists, to call a temporary truce to their normal and legitimate conflicts in order to get rid of the Government that brought the country to this pass.

The political task of getting rid of Signor Tambroni's Government proved to be more difficult than it looked. On July 13 the Christian Democrat group leader told the Prime Minister in Parliament that the Party thanked him for his firmness but no longer required his services as head of a caretaker government, since it had found a parliamentary majority for a new Government. The Party Secretary, Aldo More, and his lieutenants, hoped the Prime Minister would resign.

Instead, Signor Tambroni made an unexpected move. He said he would not resign until the Party could prove to him that it really had an effective majority for another government, and could tell him "what structure, what plans and what programme" the Government which was to succeed him would have. It is probably the first time in the history of parliamentary government here that a Prime Minister has claimed to be the arbiter of the government which is to succeed him. Signor Tambroni appeared to be putting himself into President Gronchi's place. This added fuel to the gossip about the supposed intentions of the President of the Republic, whose dogged support of Tambroni is one of the psychological mysteries of the crisis.

Dramatic Moment

Instead of telling the Prime Minister that his request was improper, the Christian Democrat leaders weakly accepted his thesis and set to work to consolidate their agreement with the three centre parties. There was a dramatic moment on the evening of July 14 when it looked as though the Liberals would drop out, but next morning good sense prevailed and, with considerable sacrifice on the part of all the contracting parties, an agreement was reached which led to Tambroni's resignation and the designation of Fanfani as Prime Minister.

The new Government is neither a centre nor left-of-centre administration. In order to avoid the difficulties which have wrecked previous coalitions the three smaller parties have formed separate bilateral agreements with the Christian Democrats and all have agreed that if one of the four partners falls out the Government shall resign.

It is hoped that this looser and uncommitted form of association will allow the four to pull together at least until the present danger is over and a more organic political solution can be found. Meanwhile the strength and prestige of the Government will depend almost entirely on the personality and integrity of its leader, Fanfani.

LET'S HOPE THIS WON'T KILL HIM

By arrangement with Ha'aretz

THE JEWS OF SPAIN

By BERHOR BAR SHALOM

SPAIN'S small Jewish community is growing, and the government is not interfering with its development.

The first group of Jews to reach Spain after the expulsion of 1492 came from Morocco about a hundred years ago and built a synagogue in Seville in 1860. A short time later, however, the synagogue burned down and the community scattered.

Half a century passed before another synagogue was founded. Licensed in February, 1917, it was erected in one of the main streets of Madrid. Like many other edifices, it suffered during the Civil War of 1936. Its ceremonial objects were looted, but due to the intervention of a Catholic lawyer from Murcia the five Torah scrolls were salvaged and transferred to a monastery in the South, where they remained until the end of the war.

Madrid and Barcelona

The Jewish community of Madrid re-organized itself in 1949, and another little synagogue was licensed by the authorities. The congregation numbered only 35 members. Today the Jewish community has grown to some 500 families as a result of continuous migration from a number of countries but mainly from North Africa. Two years ago a bigger synagogue was inaugurated, financed by the local community with the help of world Jewish bodies. Its 150 seats are, however, already inadequate.

A similar development has taken place in Barcelona, which today has 1600 families as well as two synagogues, one Sephardi and one Ashkenazi. In Madrid the cantor is acquainted with both styles and services are held in both.

Spain Helped Refugees

In Spain's two main cities Jewish cultural life is quite active, and university students participate. Drama performances are given from time to time, as well as lectures by prominent academic personalities and concerts of Jewish and Israel music. There are also public celebrations, such as a large Seder attended this year by hundreds of Jews in one of the capital's main halls.

The Government of Spain is proud of its wartime activity on behalf of Sephardi Jews in a number of Nazi-occupied countries such as Greece, Rumania and France. They were Spanish nationals under Spanish legislation passed toward the end of the last century, which conferred on the descendants of the expelled Jews not only the right to return to Spain but also Spanish citizenship, even if they elected to remain in their countries of residence. Thousands of these Jews were pulled out of the concentration camps at the intervention of Franco's diplomatic representatives: several transports reached Spain from Southern France and Bergen-Belsen.

According to the Government White Paper which recounts these facts, Spain also requested Britain to allow these Jews to proceed to Palestine through the war-torn Mediterranean in neutral Spanish ships. The request was refused, although in July, 1945, the Spanish "Plus Ultra" docked in Haifa with 400 refugees and 150 orphans aboard.

Today there is nothing anti-Semitic about the Spanish Government's stand or policies, although from time to time anti-Semitic nuances creep into certain papers, although with decreasing frequency of late. The press, which accords a good deal of space to Israel's development and progress, was of late nearly unanimous in its censure of the swastika-daubing plague that spread across the world.

Judeo-Spanish Culture

An outstanding event last autumn was a large exhibition devoted to the achievements of Judeo-Spanish culture through the ages. The exhibition, held at the National Library in Madrid, was organized by the local representative of the World Sephardi Federation with the full cooperation of such leading Hispanic institutions as the State Academy, the Universities of Madrid and Barcelona, the Supreme Council for Scientific Research and the Cultural Relations Department of the Spanish Foreign Ministry. The exhibits, which came from Israel, the U.S. Britain, France, Holland, Turkey and other countries, were conveyed to and from Madrid by Spanish diplomatic pouch.

Fifteen thousand visitors viewed the exhibition in the course of a month. They included organized groups from state and Catholic secondary schools and institutions of higher learning. Eight lectures were delivered on various aspects of Judeo-Spanish culture by leading Spanish, English and Israel scholars. The whole event received full press, radio, television and newsreel coverage. At the closing ceremony, the Minister of Education called for the establishment of an institute for research into Spanish Jewish culture. The idea is being followed up and preparations for setting up such an institute are in progress, in collaboration with the World Sephardi Federation.

Generally speaking, the Spanish people know almost nothing about Jews but would like to be informed. Such books as "Le dernier des justes," "The Third Reich and the Jews" and "Exodus" are selling widely, and films on Biblical themes, and others with a Jewish interest, like "J'accuse," have been shown in Madrid cinemas.

YESTERDAY'S PRESS

IRAN AND ISRAEL

AS an independent state, Persia has no real grounds for taking part in the Arab effort to isolate Israel, writes Lamerhav (Ahdut Ha'avoda). On the contrary, if Teheran goes further and establishes diplomatic relations with Israel, it can only advance the cause of peace and cooperation among the Middle East's peoples, which are already weary of the burden imposed on them by the Arab rulers' hatred of Israel.

Any retreat from the Shah's avowed intentions can only increase the insolence of the Arab rulers, who lack the most rudimentary international manners and intervene in the affairs of other countries, writes Omer (Histadrut).

While Dr. Yohanan Bader in Herut does not expect Nasser's offensive to have the results the Egyptian dictator is hoping for, Israel must not take this for granted, says the writer. Restraint on our part will only feed the fire of Arab impudence.

The picture of our agricultural situation drawn in the Knesset by Aluf Dayan is accurate and not very encouraging, avers Ha'aretz (non-party) but the situation is not of the Minister's making; it is his party which is the architect of our farm policy and cannot shake off responsibility for the present crisis.

A serious problem of overproduction vs. local underconsumption confronts the Minister of Agriculture, writes Haboker (General Zionist), but the roots of the crisis lie in our whole economic system. This is also why it is wrong to assume that the trouble can be cured by eliminating farming among urban residents.

Our medical staff in the Congo is writing a brilliant chapter of self-sacrifice without looking for material reward, writes Al Hamishmar (Mapam) which considers this a sign of solidarity with the human race.

Hong Kong Aids Refugees

HONG KONG. —

MUCH resentment has been caused in Hong Kong by Formosan assertions that the British colony is making improper use of world refugee funds so far received. Nationalist Chinese officials are now threatening to take their charges to the United Nations.

These charges are based on the assertion that the funds are not being used solely for the benefit of political refugees from mainland China. This is true. Hong Kong does not divide its poor into categories but tries to help all, irrespective of their background. But in each case where world refugee funds have been allocated for specific projects, such as a clinic for a resettlement area, for example, the prior approval of the donor Government has always been obtained.

The Hong Kong Government, understandably, is sensitive to criticism of its treatment of the colony's refugees and locally-born poor since it already had resettled several hundred thousand persons with very little outside help before the World Refugee Year came along, and it plans to continue this noteworthy and highly expensive project indefinitely. Already the Government has spent considerably more than one hundred times the amount it is likely to get from the World Refugee Year funds.

Such criticism is particularly galling coming from Formosa, which has neither contributed money nor offered to accept any significant number of refugees from overcrowded Hong Kong. The view of Hong Kong officials is that the Chinese Nationalists should make a serious effort to help these people instead of trying to make political capital from their plight.

KEEPING POSTED

NITZAV Avraham Selinger, Chief of Bureau 0-6 of the Israel police set up for the investigation of Eichmann's crimes, arrived in Holland late on a Wednesday night, after his visits to England and France, and stayed there until Saturday. He had had every intention of keeping out of the limelight and avoiding press publicity, but unfortunately was spotted immediately on his arrival at Schiphol Airport by a reporter of Holland's sensational morning paper "De Telegraaf." The paper on Friday morning published a long front-page story on him, with a picture, and unguardedly giving the name of the hotel in Amsterdam where he was staying. Part of the information came from the hotel-keeper. In order to get some peace in which to work, Mr. Selinger agreed to hold a press conference late on Friday afternoon at the Israel Consulate-General in Amsterdam.

Here he related that he visited the Netherlands Government Bureau for War Documentation in Amsterdam, where the Director and Vice-Director, Dr. L. de Jong and Dr. B.A. Sijes, had been most helpful. The latter is now engaged in searching thousands of documents for relevant material. Asked about the results of his visit to France he said they were "promising," and added somberely "but of course not for Eichmann." He also gave a survey of the organization of his bureau. The precise and yet diplomatic answers to the many questions put to him greatly impressed the newsmen. Asked in what language Eichmann was being interrogated, he hesitated for a split second before saying "in his own." It saved him having to roll the word "German" off his tongue. He ended by appealing to the press to ask their questions now and not to follow him about, as he had work to do in Holland, and was pressed for time. If they had any more questions later, they should ask the hotel-keeper again. One newspaper later paid him the compliment of saying that his manner reminded them of the celebrated Inspector Maigret, as played by Jean Gabin.

THERE is always this business of what children are to do in their holidays if they live in town, or even if they don't. Our Nahariya correspondent writes that he engaged his 11-year-old son to put in several hours in the workshop every day, against an agreed modest wage. The boy soon came down with a feverish cold that his mother said he had caught staying in the swimming pool too late. The boy said that he had caught it in the workshop, dabbling his hands in cold water to locate the punctures in the inner tubes of bicycles, and that he was entitled to sick pay under the labour laws. In Nahariya, people know what they are doing.

A SIX-YEAR-OLD we have heard of, on the other hand, was sent to a particularly swanky and well-equipped day camp near Tel Aviv. This year there were all kinds of new games and gadgets, at great expense to his parents. When a well-meaning aunt asked him how he was enjoying his holiday, he said "Its lovely. We ride all the way there and back every day in the bus, and I sit by the window."

THE owner of a large hotel in Tel Aviv reports that a guest who seemed a little confused about his trip arrived one evening and asked for a room with a balcony. He was able to give him one with a fine view of the sea, and in due course he learned that the guest was having all his meals sent up to his room. After a couple of days he dropped in to see him, thinking that perhaps he did not feel well. He found the visitor enjoying his breakfast on the balcony, very pleased with life. He explained he had been having his meals up there because the view was so fine. "You see, I had never realised before that you could sit in the Holy City of Jerusalem and yet look right out on the sea."

The Four-Day March

By HENRIETTE BOAS
Jerusalem Post Correspondent

ONE of the very first persons the Israel participants at this year's Four-Day March around Nijmegen saw on their arrival at Schiphol Airport on Sunday afternoon was Queen Juliana. She had come to the airport to welcome some personal guests who were to arrive from London and watched the Israelis with interest as they marched from the plane over to the platform, lustily singing, "We've brought peace to you."

In their turn, the Israelis could watch the workings of Dutch democracy. Though Queen Juliana was accompanied by an adjutant, thousands of others, passengers and visitors, were milling around at the airport on this Sunday afternoon, when Schiphol is a favourite outing for large numbers of Amsterdam residents and their children. Even on the platform where the Queen was standing, life went on as usual.

The Israelis, men and girl soldiers alike, went through a charming ceremony. Four attractive Dutch girls, all dressed alike in flowered dresses, pinned a daffodil on the uniform or in the buttonhole of each of the visitors. They are the "Haarlem Flower Girls" who make publicity for the city of Haarlem, the centre of the Dutch bulb country, by greeting all V.I.P.'s arriving at Schiphol with flowers.

No Belgian Paratroopers

A total of 13,316 marchers have registered for this year's Four-Day March, which is the 44th. Of these, 10,074 are Dutch, among them 5,035 soldiers (including 23 girls) and 5,039 civilians. This was the first time that there were more civilians than soldiers; the reason is to be sought in the strenuous exercises for Dutch soldiers in France and West Germany this year, and in the despatch of fair contingents of would-be marchers to Dutch New Guinea.

World events have also made for the absence of Belgian paratroopers; in previous years, their participation was a special feature of the programme: they parachuted down into the fields near Nijmegen on the afternoon before the march.

In all, participants from 15 countries were to march this time, though several were represented by one or two men only. The largest foreign contingent comes from Britain—2,324 soldiers, police and civilians, including several women; they are accompanied by several brass bands. The second largest group, 661, was from Switzerland, which this year introduced a two-day march of her own. The 44 Israelis were in sixth place after West Germany (74) and Canada (66). Among the 3,000 non-Dutch marchers registered there were only 175 civilians.

This Year's Innovations

In contrast to previous years, small numbers of marchers will be accommodated in schools. As time goes on and more and more brand-new modern school buildings arise in Nijmegen, fewer and fewer principals are willing to expose them to the billeting of soldiers. Most of the Dutch soldiers are therefore billeted in four huge tent camps, each for 1,000 men.

Also in contrast to previous years, when the organizers tried to keep the marchers indoors in the evenings as much as possible, so that they could rest for the exertions of the following day, a 100-minute international non-stop show will be held in Nijmegen each night, featuring music hall artists and English bands.

A last innovation — which will be received by some with mixed feelings — is that this year's march has done away with the participants' brushing up and change of uniform some five kilometres before the finish at the end of the last day, so that they all arrived spick and span, some even with their boots polished. This year the Dutch soldiers have been asked not to brush up on the ground that it is actually deceit; foreign soldiers have been politely requested to follow suit.

MARGINAL COMMENT

...For Women Must Work

By Fay Doron

UNTIL a few days ago, Israel led the feminist field by virtue of being the only country in the world to have a woman occupying the office of Foreign Minister. Now she has been beaten by Ceylon, which goes to the head of the list as the first, and so far the only, country to have a woman Prime Minister. Good feminists the world over will rejoice with their sisters in Ceylon and will send warm congratulations to Mrs. Bandaranaike, although some die-hard anti-feminists will doubtless put down her success to the fact that she stepped so ably into her husband's shoes.

★

NOW that a woman has shown that she can contest a general election and just as efficiently, we are sure, control a government as a brood of unruly children, our minds naturally turn to the status of women in Israel. We have much upon which to pride ourselves (and the menfolk among our legislators). We have the vote, naturally. We can be elected to the Knesset and hold Cabinet rank (and not be fobbed off with portfolios which some associate chiefly with women). We can be Mayors and city councillors (although not enough of us feature in local government). We have the rate for the job — that star to which the feminist waggon in many a country is still hitched — even though this does not apply to housewives who get no remuneration at all except for their knipl. We have national insurance and maternity benefits. We even have what many other countries have still not approved — the right to submit separate income tax assessments if we are working wives although as yet we are not permitted deductions for the domestic help we have to employ. We do not have the right, proposed at one time in the Indian Parliament, to pay alimony to husbands in the case of divorce.

IN spite of all the rights, privileges and the standard of emancipation achieved by Israel's women, there are two months in the year when the majority of our female population feels hardly done by. These are the two months of the summer vacation, when the mothers in Israel look morosely at the school-teachers and wonder why they complain so much — after all, they go at least get paid for looking after the children for a few hours a day.

IT is high time that our progressive society made satisfactory provision for schoolchildren during the holidays. A few families can afford to take the children away for more than a week or two, if that. Go into any shop or office these days — you will find the employer and employee alike tampering with typewriters, playing with model cars or just getting underfoot — for the simple reason that the working mother has no way of leaving her child properly supervised. The holiday schools, for the most part operate only for a few weeks of the vacation. Some municipal authorities have closed a number of streets in order to give the children a safe place in which to play or arranged for supervised play in the parks, but only for short periods. Others, in cooperation with the Ministry of Education, have arranged for special morning cinema shows for the youngsters. This is a step in the right direction, but it cannot be healthy for the children to spend the mornings in the cinema and in any case the choice of films is questionable. Instead of showing pictures which might stimulate the child's sense of adventure and challenge, such as the "Conquest of Everest" or give him a glimpse of his own country by screening Israel documentaries and travelogues — the programmes have included spurious thrills such as the Tarzan stories, or the slapstick of Laurel and Hardy.

★

IT might be more helpful to the working mother, who as the second breadwinner in the family contributes to the country's revenues, to consider other methods of solving her problems. Consideration might be given to staggering the holiday season, or dividing the school year into four, instead of three terms, as is done in parts of the Union in South Africa and which is now being suggested in Great Britain. One month of the summer vacation, for example, might be postponed to include the Rosh Hashana — Succot period which in point of fact means an additional holiday period.

THE hand that rocks the cradle in Israel during the dog-days is more often than not taken off that job to hold the small of the aching back, rub the harassed brow or slap another child. The people who are really most deserving of sympathy are those hard-working women, the teachers who are at one and the same time wives and mothers and who cannot relax even during the summer vacation as their male colleagues can do.

TICKET WAR

Editor, The Jerusalem Post

Sir, — I read with interest your article on the theatre ticket war in Jerusalem and should like to put to your readers the point of view expressed by practically all the people I know in this town.

A monopoly is indefensible, no matter how long the standing of one's seniority. If we accept Mr. Cahana's reasoning, there would be no new industries or development whatsoever in this country.

Even if we assume that Mr. Cahana's office deals fairly with its customers, some people refrain from going to performances merely because they have to queue in that particular place. I can testify to this from my own experience; I have given up the thought of attending a show for the simple reason that I have no time to queue for tickets.

The theatre-going public in Jerusalem can only be increased by the addition of a second Agency and anyone interested in bringing more life to the capital must wholeheartedly support it.

Yours, etc.

TRAINS TO BINYAMINA

Editor, The Jerusalem Post

Sir, — Reverting to the Railways' reply to my complaint that the new timetable seriously inconveniences residents of Binyamina (your issue of June 20), I wish to say that it was not only unfriendly in tone but far from satisfactory, as the fact remains that for three and one-half hours and three hours, respectively, no train from Haifa or Tel Aviv stops in Binyamina in the late afternoon or evening hours. This puts people used to travelling to work, shopping or the cinema to all degrees of inconvenience.

May we still express the hope that the railway management, which has been so pleasant and understanding and so eager for good public relations, will reconsider the unfortunate time-table and apply welcome corrections soon.

Yours, etc.

M.A. DEGREE

Editor, The Jerusalem Post

Sir, — In reporting the suggestion considered by the Hebrew University authorities to ease requirements for the M.A. degree, (your issue of July 7th) you stated: "The M.A. degree does not require a thesis in many leading universities abroad, including Oxford and Cambridge."

It may be of interest to your readers to learn that at Oxford and Cambridge, as well as at Trinity College, Dublin, the M.A. degree is conferred, three years after graduation, on holder of the B.A. degree of the University who pays a fee of three guineas.

Yours etc.
